ACCOMMODATIONS

GENERAL:

MAG III, built as LADY SHEILA, was delivered in 2009 as Hull # 11 of 19 in the series of Benetti Visions. MAG III has a stunning interior with the finest of woods and marble combinations throughout. She was built with unsurpassed supervision by a project manager who has built several Benetti Visions and has 16 Benetti build projects to his name.

MAG III's stunning main salon has two sitting areas. The aft area where one enters from the aft deck has a beautiful custom-built bar to port, larger and more accommodating than the original. The bar is made of Zebrano Wood with a petrified wood bar top and unlimited color variation LED illumination. The main salon has a custom Guinea solid Queen Macassar Ebony and African Anigre partition with bookshelves which is closed on the bottom and open on the top. This allows for separate seating areas keeping the aft with a slightly more formal feel and the forward "library" with a cozy sitting area. All of the furnishings throughout are made of the best fabrics, materials and design.

The starboard main deck foyer formal entrance leads into a beautiful foyer adjacent the elevator and stairs that go up to the sky lounge and down to the lower accommodations. Forward of the foyer is the main deck day head to starboard; continuing forward reach the full beam master stateroom by going through the master study which has a desk with two chairs and wardrobe. There is private coffee bar and fridge. The full beam master stateroom is very spacious with an impressive 270 degrees circular view, his and her baths and ample closets and storage space. From the master on center you can go forward through a private door to the private veranda seating area on the foredeck.

From the main deck foyer, proceed down either by elevator or stairs to reach the four-guest cabin accommodation area. The guest cabins are made up of two VIPs with queens and two doubles with twins, each with Pullman berths. All guest staterooms are appointed with beautiful woodwork, a light and airy décor, hand selected marble and ample closets and storage space. Presently the starboard twin guest is made up as a gym. All woodwork to convert the present gym back to the starboard twin cabin has been stored with meticulous care and can be easily reinstalled.

Going up the elevator or the stairs, arrive at the upper level/Bridge deck where the upper day head is located. This area gives access to the bridge. Going aft is the stylish and comfortable sky lounge with a solid Queen Macassar Ebony and Anigre wood horseshoe bar with unlimited color changing LED Lights that coordinate with the main salon bar lights. On the forward bulkhead, there is a discreet pocket door that leads to a pantry on the upper deck level with service stairs leading down to a lower pantry and galley, this makes for ease of crew servicing the sky lounge or dining area without guest interruption. To starboard, the sky lounge is a generous and cozy sitting area. The spectacular dining room adjoins the sky lounge with a circular room with 270 degrees views and wrap around glass doors that open to give the area the feeling of being outside or closed for inclement conditions. Within the dining area, there is a round custom Queen Macassar Ebony dining room table with a lazy Susan in the center. The dining table seats ten. There are two solid Queen Macassar Ebony sideboards with three drawer storage for silverware and serving utensils.

MAG III's open aft main deck is spacious and has fixed seating, two chairs and a large teak table for al fresco dining. There are stairs from the aft deck leading to the upper deck as well as down to the swim platform with easy access to the water. Her sundeck is impressive with a Jacuzzi surrounded by teak decking and loungers, a casual seating area and table. Further forward is an amidships dining area with table and chairs, further forward is a bar with three stools. All the way forward is a forward-facing semicircular seating area with table and additional chairs, perfect for viewing the sights while cruising.

Steps from the main deck aft lead down to the swim platform and garage, the door of which opens down to make for a wonderful area to stage all water toy activity and swimming. When the toys are out of the garage the area becomes a beach club. This proves to be the perfect place to pick up and drop off guests by tender.
